SAMPLING TEXAS

Glimpsing around the state, we were happy to notice that a new bar has opened in Amarillo, Pal's. It's the "in" place there now and should keep all those fine, but somewhat isolated, folk in that cowboy city happy for some time. . . . Imitation of Life, that grand tear-jerker starring Lana Turner, John Gavin and Sandra Dee, will be shown on Monday Night at the Movies on August 4th at the Bayou Landing in Houston at 8:30 and 11:00 p.m. Dallasites can enjoy Paleface, starring Bob Hope and Jane Russell on Sunday, August 3rd, at 9:00 p.m. at the Sundance Kids. . . . In the "May I Have the Envelope, Please" category, we have these tidbits. In the FROGS elections, Val Roy was elected the Imperial Grand Master, while Bob Ellison assumed the title of the Grand Master. Bob, as you know, is the owner of the Kon-Tiki in Galveston. Bringing up the rear of the FROGS slate was Duchess, who was named a Master of Frogs. In another major election, Norman, of Tooter's Restaurant in Houston, was elected the President of TADS. The ballot count also showed that Joe Peil won honors as Vice-President and Chuck Proske was the new Secretary-Treasurer of the organization. Both Joe and Chuck are in the Club Houston heirarchy. And that's today's swampside news on the FROGS, and somewhat younger, TADS. . . . In the "HURRY UP AND GET THERE" news, Please take note that on August 1st, the MCC Church will be honored at Chuck's in Dallas, with all drinks and beer at 50¢ from 8:00 p.m. till midnight. On that same night, the Venture Inn in Houston will have a grand opening buffet, free of charge, from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. August 1st night will also see the opening of the Second Sun II in Houston (formally the Pisces Club). . . . If you thought the Houston City Health Department clamp down on bars serving food was going to stop those Steak Night events at all the bars, you're wrong. There is still one bar that is having the weekly cook-outs, despite official warnings. That's Mary's in Houston on Wednesday night. Eat fast, eat fast. . . . On Tuesday, the Houston Hi-Kamp's V.I.P. Night honors Billy Duncan, manager of Dirty Sally's. . . . In Abilene, the Bar H now features a "Bump" contest on every other Thursday; and a pool tournament on each Wednesday. . . . On the talent front, the Lampost in Houston has Talent Night every Wednesday. All talents, of any kind, are welcome. But let's not get gross. . . . And speaking of talent, the Grease Sisters will appear at the Hi-Lite Ranch in Houston on Thursday. Take life a little easier, Sisters. . . . Lynn Christi heads up the shows at Houston's Pacific Street Station now, with Torchy Lane doing stints on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. . . . Also, on Sunday, get in line at Ursula's with your $2.00 for that super spaghetti supper and bar drink discounts. . . . Happy Birthday "how-do-you-dos" go out from This Week In Texas to Jimmy of the Lazy J in Houston. August 3rd is the biggie. . . . And this final gossip follow-up. Our snoops say the rumor is true pertaining to the go-go dancer at the Hi-Kamp in Houston named Just Randy. Rumor had it that he was a dynamite knock-out. Apparently it's true.

DOCTORS BAG

by John Ratz, M.D.

In 1960, President John Kennedy revealed his dream that Americans would walk on the surface of the moon before ten more years had passed. In that same year, the Surgeon General of the United States, Luther Terry, announced the results of a federal task force study that showed that syphilis would be totally eradicated from the U.S. by the year 1970. The virginity of the moon and the disease syphilis were both to be abolished during the 10-year period. Only one of the two dreams would become reality. How strange, the nation that could put men on the moon could not rid itself of a dread disease — a disease for which it had a cure!

For while science had the tools for destroying the disease, it could not overcome that one uncontrollable factor — public ignorance and embarrassment. As unbelievable as it seems, a large majority of our modern-era population does not know the symptoms of syphilis. And even worse, there are still those who DO know they have the disease, but are shy about seeking medical aid because they still think of the disease in religious terms and would rather have the infection than admit that they have "sinned." Unfortunately, this phoney moralism does not stop them from spreading the "sin" to others.

Doctors would never have known how great the spread of syphilis had been in the United States had it not been for World War II. For while many men might have desired to keep their disease a secret, there was no way to hide the truth during an army draft physical. The doctors began to realize how big the syphilis epidemic had become, and they were shocked. Of the 12 million men called to service more than 170,000 required treatment for syphilis before they could be placed on active duty. To quickly cure infected men for the draft and to treat the civilian population without hindering the war effort, drastic steps were taken.

Special therapy facilities, known as rapid treatment centers, were established throughout the country by the Lanham Act, passed in 1943. These centers provided intensive syphilis therapy for thousands upon thousands of military men. Controls were also established to treat infected men prior to their discharge into civilian life.

Shortly after the close of World War II, 63 V.D. centers had been established and were treating more than 185,000 persons each year for all stages of syphilis. But then the situation seemed to get even better. New drug treatment, including penicillin, allowed doctors to treat their own patients for syphilis faster and easier. U.S. citizens need no longer spend days getting "cured" at a V.D.

center as they had before. All they had to do was get a couple of shots from their doctor for early-stage treatment. No wonder they thought that surely syphilis could be wiped out by the year 1970. It seemed so easy.

But as we've learned, the shallow thinking of the people made the final solution evasive. The syphilis epidemic in this country is growing, even faster than the peak spreading years of World War II. The efforts to educate the people about the symptoms of syphilis have been slowed by religious "do good-ers" who feel syphilis is not a fit topic for public education. They think it is better to continue having the disease in the U.S. than show what the disease is like on radio, television and billboards along the highway.

So the ignorance spreads. How much do you know about syphilis? Are you aware of the new developments concerning the disease that have come along in the last six years? Do you know about the syphilis that shows no symptoms that you might have been taught to recognize? Do you know the ailments that syphilis causes that you may have thought was something else? Can syphilis kill you without knowing it? We'll discuss the answers to these questions next time.

ANSWERS BY ADAM

by Adam Dennis

My lover has gone crazy. We have lived together for six years. During that time, we have held good jobs and acquired a nice home with a swimming pool, three cars and generally enjoy the "finer things in life." We also have about 60-thousand dollars in bonds and savings. But now, my lover wants to liquidate everything and spend the next five or ten years traveling around the country like a pair of thrill seeking gypsies. We are both 29 years old and I tell him it's time to start thinking about retirement and such things. It's morbid to discuss, but you just can't find yourself 60 years old with nothing to show for it. He says that we built our "nest" once, and we can do it again - later. But now, he says, it's time to have a little fun and see the world. With backpacks no less. I love the guy and our relationship has been as near perfect as any I've ever heard of. I'll never leave him, but what do I do?

Rich N., Houston, Texas

Dear Rich:

Whatta ya mean, whatta ya do? Get your ass to the closet and start pulling out those sleeping bags, start making "For Sale" signs with your crayolas and start making some memories you can take to your grave, rather than leaving a lot of empty possessions behind for your relatives to inherit. Joy is in the doing, not in the "having." Honey only draws flies. You're in a dream situation. Hit the road, Mack!

I just read that about a fourth of all the face lifts being performed in this country are being done on men. Where do you go and how much does it cost?

Tom R., Lubbock, Texas

Dear Tom:

Information on face lifting procedures and surgeons who perform them are available from the medical societies of most major cities. There are also several books out on that topic. As for costs, that depends on just how much "lifting" you need done. A simple "nose job" can be had for less than a thousand dollars, but more extensive cosmetic procedures can run the bill up to six or seven thousand dollars. But those who pay the higher prices still agree that it was worth the money. Better to walk around looking younger than springtime than to drive a big expensive car that is used to cart around a face that looks like a meat-loaf on a wrinkled neck.
