Hi, gang. . . . It seems that the big news around the state this week concerns things legal. In Dallas, be on the lookout for several upcoming benefits for Mary Jo Risher. Mary Jo, as you may have read in People magazine or seen on the local or network news, has lost custody of her nine-year-old adopted son, because she is a lesbian. The jury, going against the trend in other states, awarded custody of the boy to Mary Jo's ex-husband. The case will be appealed to a higher court, but legal funds will be needed. When the announcements of benefits are made, please attend and help if you can. . . . In Houston, the news is of police harassment of gays. But evidently, some good is coming from all the bad. The recent "hassles" have evidently been the work of one police sergeant, Sgt. Bielstein, from the 17th district. When Mayor Fred Hofheinz heard of the trouble, he invited members of the Houston Gay Political Caucus to his office. The mayor assured them he was unaware of the recent trouble and it would be stopped immediately! The mayor added that things would be better under new Police Chief Bond. Let's give some applause to the GPC for this recent effort. Let's give them support too, either in manpower or money, or both. Go, GPC. . . . Incidentally, the GPC has prepared an information sheet on what to do if you are arrested, in a bar or wherever. We strongly recommend you get a copy. In short, it talks about the importance of cooperation at the time of arrest — and then what to do to get out of the mess. Additionally, in that situation, call your local GPC, MCC or Crisis Hotline. . . . People in San Antonio would be well advised to follow the plans and progress of "Gay in San Antonio — A Sense of Belonging." It is an official part of the bicentennial celebration funded by the American Issues Forum Committee of San Antonio. The big event will be on April 30 through May 1, 1976. We'll give you more details as it comes closer

. . . . When Mayor Fred Hofheinz heard of the trouble, he invited members of the Houston Gay Political Caucus to his office. . . . things would be better under new Police Chief Bond. . . .

on the calendar, but start looking for it now. . . . Turning now to local tidbits and gossip, Houston-ites will be glad to know that the Locker's patio is now totally enclosed, no more freezin' of the buns. The enclosure effort was a project of the Texas Riders. Good goin' guys. . . . Houston's Lazy J will be closed from Jan. 26 to Feb. 2, a liquor violation. Also closing for three days is the Depository, as they clean up their act. The big "D" will have a special re-opening confab on the night of Jan. 29, featuring a new light show and dance floor. By the way, we trust you know that in the future, the Depository will be closed on Monday nights, while the Old Plantation Houston will take its weekly rest, and close its doors, on Tuesdays. . . . The Old Plantation in Dallas is having all sorts of trouble. As you know, the old location has been closed down while the new Old Plantation was under construction. Well, Saturday evening, the new location burned to the ground and it appears to have been a case of arson. So, now, there's not an old Old Plantation and it will be even longer before there is a new Old Plantation. Owners say, however, they will rebuild at the new site. . . . Also in Dallas, you Mother Iva fans will be delighted to hear that M.I. herself is now holding "court" at the Service Station on weekdays from noon to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from noon to 6 p.m. Additionally, M.I. will stage her heroic bloody mary bash at the back bar. . . . In the "From Here and There" category: San Antonio residents should start gearing up for the Starving Artists Show in April. In the meantime, if you plan to go to Fiesta de San Jacinto celebration this year, in April also, you'd better get your reservations now. They're going fast and there aren't that many hotel rooms to go around in the Alamo City. And in Galveston, take note that the Kon Tiki Wahine has changed its name back to the Fruit Jar. Welcome, home. . . . And finally, brace yourself. I said brace yourself. Starting next week, This Week In Texas begins running a weekly "soap opera" in print. It's called Life With Vera and is simply not to be believed. You've heard the expression "really hot"? Well, this is! It's a serial that will keep you absolutely panting with quivering excitement from one installment to the other. . . . But in the meantime, take care of yourself. And we'll see you next week with all this usual good stuff plus the first installment of Life With Vera!

ANSWERS BY ADAM

by Adam Dennis

Dear Adam,

This may sound stupid, but I know for a fact that it is true. Some guys I know are putting Preparation H on their faces to take away the wrinkles. They put on a thin coat about an hour before they go out to the bars each night. And, believe it or not, it really works. For the next six hours they look about 10 years younger! My question is — is this harmful to the skin of the face?

Wayne S., Houston, Texas

Dear Wayne,

Checking with my local doc, it appears that the practice is not harmful, if not carried to excess. This method of low-budget facelift is not harmful to . . . Some guys I know are putting Preparation H on their faces to take away wrinkles. . . . For the next six hours they look about ten years younger. . . .

most skin types so long as it is not used too frequently. I'd advise using it only on special occasions — first dates, proms, etc. Extreme dryness of the skin could be a bad side effect if used too frequently. But apparently you are correct in saying it really does work because more and more guys are using it. But it's not the sort of thing I would brag about. If I went in for an occasional "H"-lift, I wouldn't tell my fiancée until I had that ring on his finger. Just because you treat your face like an asshole is no reason to act like one. Do it. But don't tell anybody in town.

Dear Adam,

A friend of mine gave me a large painting for Christmas. Or at least, I think it's a painting. It's the most God-awful, tacky eyesore I've ever had the misfortune of encountering. It's a wierd, "modernistic" drawing of some unknown shape like no one has ever seen before. And what's worse, it's painted in colors that no man has ever seen before. It's on the wall right now, glooming up the room. My problem is obvious. How do I get rid of this monster without offending my friend? If I leave it up, I will look like a fool to all my other friends. Any suggestions?

Henry V., San Antonio, Texas

Dear Henry,

If the painting is really as bad as you say, I'd put it on the smallest wall and surround it with all the cheap trash I could find — a feather boa, copper skillet, an Elton John poster, etc. Then, you can tell all your "other" friends that it is your "camp" wall, a big joke whose splendor is in its total absurdity. On the other hand, the person who gave you the poor-taste painting will think you have "framed" his gift with art objects of equal stature. (The guys who like bad art usually like feather boas, too.)

Feb. 1, 1976 — 1st Annual Mr. & Mrs. Oddwoodd Contest. Theme is Camp. The wonderful prize for this dubious honor is: A fabulous evening visiting the gay highlights of Houston. The evening will start when the winners are picked up in a chauffeured-driven ice cream truck and wisked off to Dirty Sally's for a before-dinner cocktail. Then they will enjoy a sumptuous dinner for two at Tooters (tip not included) and off to the Inside-Outside for a refreshing drink. But that's not all because our lucky winners will be treated to sneak previews of the finest, first-run movies at Studz News and Adultz News. Then put on your dancing shoes for the best on discotheque at the Farmhouse and the Depository. Your evening will wind up with a night-cap at Mary's, the place that is renowned for offering the best in entertainment. Yes, all of this can be yours — an evening to remember. Encourage your friends and enemies to enter this contest. Let Frank Mann know that we are proud to be oddwoodds. $1 cover for the contest. Proceeds to GPC. 3:30pm. Costume: any thing odd.
